Sunita Staneslow has played in concert halls and pubs from New Zealand to Tel Aviv. A graduate of the Manhattan School of Music, Sunita is classically trained although her passion is traditional music. She specializes in both Jewish and Celtic music and has become widely known for her creative arrangements for the harp.

Sunita has been working as a therapeutic harpist at the Schneider Children's Medical Center for the past four years and has been part of two medical studies at the NICU at Meir Hospital near Tel Aviv. In addition, Sunita was named one of the top ten Jewish instrumentalists by Moment Magazine and she was a recipient of a 1998 McKnight Foundation Fellowship in recognition of her work with Jewish music.

She has released 12 CDs on several labels of Jewish, Celtic and classical music and published twelve books of her arrangements of music for the harp. Sunita has performed with the Minnesota Opera and the Chicago Chamber Orchestra and was the principal harpist for the Jerusalem Symphony during the 1986-87 season and has often performed with the Ra'anana Symphonette in Israel.
